LORAN RAYMOND JONES

Loran Raymond Jones, artist of the oil paintings now owned by St. Armands Key Lutheran Church was born in east central Indiana. He spent most of his formative years in rural sections of that state. After high school, while employed by the Civil Service Commission in Washington, D.C., he studied evenings in the Corcoran Art School, later, he attended the summer classes of Charles W. Hawthorne, Provincetown, Massachusetts. Moving to Chicago, he studied in a small professional class conducted by Audubon Tyler, and also attended painting classes at the Art Institute of Chicago.

While employed in a commercial art studio, he met, and later married, Miss Lena Gunderson of Wautoma, Wisconsin. Lena was an illustrator for the advertising community, her background of art training and experience was of great value and can be seen in Jones' work. They had a daughter and two grandchildren.

Jones had many years' experience in general commercial and book illustration; also doing an occasional portrait. For a number of years he was an active and exhibiting member of several fine art organizations in Chicago and the suburban area.

The painting of religious subjects for publishers was his specialty for twenty years. He also devoted part time to teaching in two of the country's prominent art schools for fourteen years, including the Ringling School of Art. His religious paintings were executed for "Bible Stories That Live" published by the Southwestern Company in Nashville, TN.

Jones was born on August 17, 1897 and died November 2, 1985 in Sarasota, FL. Some of the paintings shown here were kindly donated to St. Armands Key Lutheran Church, as he was a member.
